

LUDWIG-
MAXIMILIANS-
UNIVERSITÄT
MÜNCHEN

Fakultät für Geschichts- und Kunstwissenschaften historisches Seminar

Geschichte Osteuropas und Südosteuropas

East-Central and Southeast European History in a Global Perspective

Possibilities, Provocations, Futures

Conference by Prof. Dr. Máté Rigó (LMU)

Time	Program
09:15–09:30	Welcome and introduction: Máté Rigó (LMU)
09:30–11:00	Panel I — Directions of Research: Seeking New Approaches, Questioning Area Studies Divisions, Recognizing Blind Spots Chair: Mirko Savković (LMU) Speakers: Ferenc Laczó (Maastricht), “A Global History of Hungary, Reflections by a Co-Author” Sarah Lemmen (UCM Madrid), “Looking at ECE from the South: The Productive Challenges of doing Research on East Central Europe in Spain” Martin Schulze Wessel (LMU), “The Emergence of Ukrainian Studies and Its Impact on East-Central European History” Forum discussion What have we missed in research and teaching?
11:20–12:30	Panel II — Reimagining the Long Nineteenth Century Chair: Theodora Nastasie (LMU) Speakers: Michael L. Miller (CEU), “Are Habsburg Jews Good to Think With?” Marco Bresciani (U Florence), “Paradoxes of Post-Habsburg History: Imperial Legacies, Fascism, and Mitteleuropa, A View from Trieste” Forum discussion (moderated by Matthias Melcher (LMU) The State of the Field: Nineteenth-Century East-Central and Southeast European History, Jewish History, and Their Place in Global History
14:00–15:15	Panel III — East–West Divides and the Cold War Chair: Montague James (Brown) Speakers: Dóra Vargha (Humboldt/Exeter), “An alternative global health? Central and Eastern Europe and the fields of history of science, medicine and technology” José Luis Aguilar López-Barajas (Hannah Arendt Institute, Dresden), “What Have the East-Central Europeans Ever Done for Us? Socialist ECE in Cold War Knowledge Circulation” Forum discussion What can the field of ECE/Southeast European history add to global histories of the post-1945 period?
15:15–15:30	Coffee break
15:30–17:15	Roundtable — Writing East-Central and Southeast European History in Turbulent Times: War, AI, Populism, and Graduate Training Moderator: Máté Rigó Participants: Marie-Janine Calic (LMU), Kiran Klaus Patel (LMU), Tara Zahra (U Chicago), José Luis Aguilar López-Barajas, Marco Bresciani, Ferenc Laczó, Sarah Lemmen, Michael L. Miller, Dóra Vargha, Máté Rigó
17:30–18:45	Keynote lecture by Pieter M. Judson (EUI) followed by Q&A: Chair: Máté Rigó

Wednesday, October 7 at 17:30,
LMU Villa, Maria-Theresia-Str. 21, 81675
Munich

Attendance requires pre-registration at Katalin.Iordanidis@lrz.uni-muenchen.de